Constable's Clouds: Paintings and Cloud Studies by John ...

Clouds is one of around fifty extant paintings of the sky which Constable made in Hampstead, between 1821 and 1822, and it has been speculated that he produced more than one hundred such studies at the time. Constable made his intense examination, which he called 'skying', to precisely record different weather and atmospheric conditions, in preparation for his grand landscapes.

John Constable, RA (/ ' k ʌ n s t ə b ə l, ' k ɒ n -/; 11 June 1776 – 31 March 1837) was an English landscape painter in the Romantic tradition. Born in Suffolk, he is known principally for revolutionising the genre of landscape painting with his pictures of Dedham Vale, the area surrounding his home – now known as "Constable Country" – which he invested with an intensity of affection.

John Constable - Wikipedia

British Romantic painter John Constable was significantly influenced by Howard's theories in his evocative studies of clouds. "Clouds, for Constable, were a source of feeling and perception, an 'Organ of sentiment' (heart or lungs) as much as meteorological phenomena," writes author Mary Jacobus in the book Romantic Things: A Tree, a Rock, a Cloud .
